Book Reviews

Without Mercy by Jefferson Bass (2016)

In the most suspenseful installment of the Body Farm series to date, forensic anthropologist Dr. Bill Brockton investigates a bizarre murder--and confronts a deadly enemy he thought he'd put behind bars for good Forensic anthropologist Bill Brockton has spent twenty-five years solving brutal murders--but none so horrific and merciless as his latest case: A ravaged set of skeletal remains is found scattered in the woods of nearby Cook County. They are all that is left of a victim who had been chained, hand and foot, to a tree on a remote mountainside. The bones tell Brockton and his longtime graduate assistant, Miranda, that the victim was a young male under the age of thirty. As they dig deeper to establish his identity, they uncover warning signs that long-simmering hatred is about to explode into violence, engulfing the region in chaos.

But the shocking case is only the beginning of Brockton's trials. In the middle of the troubling investigation, the unthinkable happens. The most frightening and deadliest criminal Brockton has ever foiled--the sadistic serial killer Nick Satterfield--escapes from prison, bent on wreaking vengeance. And he's had nearly twenty years to plan.

Simply killing Brockton isn't enough. Satterfield wants to make his nemesis suffer first, by destroying everything Brockton holds dear: his son, daughter-in-law, and grandsons, and even Miranda, who's now on the verge of completing her Ph.D. and launching a forensic career of her own.

Barraged by dangers striking from all directions, haunted by the ghosts of old cases, and desperate to save those he loves, Brockton finds himself slipping closer to the abyss. Pushed to the edge, he is forced to question the two pillars that have guided his life and his entire career--the justice system and the quality of mercy. Can the two truly coexist?

If he cannot reconcile these principles, which will Brockton choose in his ultimate moment of truth?

A harrowing, thoughtful, and provocative tale that explores what happens when one honorable, rational man is tested beyond all measure, Without Mercy is a powerful exploration that raises uneasy questions about justice and revenge, compassion and principle, the desire to kill and the will to survive.

I tried to read this book while on vacation in Minnesota. After getting to page 145 of 333 I gave up. I couldn't read it and stay awake. There was so little suspense and pace it kept putting me to sleep. The authors – Jon Jefferson & Bill Bass – filled the 145 pages with way too much gallows humor, academic office chit-chat, anthropological history and simple filler. I give it a C- and can't recommend it. Sorry!!

Lost Colonies Trilogy: Battle Cruiser, Dreadnaught & Star Carrier by B.V. Larson

One starship will either save Earth or destroy her.

A century ago our star erupted, destroying Earth's wormhole network and closing off trade with her colonized planets. After being out of contact with the younger worlds for so many years, Humanity is shocked when a huge ship appears at the edge of the Solar System. Our outdated navy investigates, both curious and fearful.

What they learn from the massive vessel rocks the planet. The lost colonies have survived—but the reunion isn't going to be a happy one. Our descendants are vastly superior in the art of warfare. Worse, there are other beings undreamed of beyond the human frontier: strange, unfathomable...alien.

Battle Cruiser Defiant, the first capital ship to darken Earth's skies, is tasked with exploring new passages to the younger planets. Old Earth must reunite with her children...but can humanity survive the inevitable conflicts? Captain William Sparhawk, determined to follow a path of honor and truthfulness, dares to rise to the challenge.

Claudia & I listened to this trilogy while traveling and enjoyed it more than we anticipated. Captain Sparhawk and his crew evolved in the 3 books, faced daunting challenges and prevailed against the odds. The space battles were exciting and complex. We give it a B and recommend this trilogy, even if Science Fiction isn't your normal fare.

Helen & Richard Hilbrant

Show of Evil by William Diehl (1995)

It begins with a shocking, unsolved murder. In a small town in southern Illinois, the butchered body of Linda Balfour -- with a cryptic code printed in blood on the back of her head -- forges a gruesome link to the brutal murder of Bishop Rushman, the beloved Chicago clergyman who had been dismembered years before by the angelic-looking altar boy, Aaron Stampler. The same Aaron Stampler whom defense attorney Martin Vail saved from the electric chair.... Now Vail is Chicago's chief prosecutor, facing the nightmare of his life. If Stampler has been locked away in a high-security institution for the past ten years, how could he have killed Linda Balfour? Then another altar boy turns up dead with a similar inscription in blood on the back of his head. If Aaron Stampler isn't committing these killings, who is? Martin Vail's career -- maybe even his life -- hangs on the answer....

William Diehl - The day after his 50th birthday he began his first novel, Sharky's Machine, which was made into a movie directed by and starring Burt Reynolds. Diehl later completed eight more novels, including Primal Fear, which became a movie by the same name starring Richard Gere and Edward Norton. He died in 2006. His books fall into the thriller genre and I can attest to them being true thrillers. Show of Evil is the second of 3 Martin Vail novels and both the story and the protagonist are first rate. I put him on par with John Grisham, David Morrell, & Harold Coyle. I give this book and A-. Not read Diehl? Best get a jump on it. His books are increasingly hard to find.

Face of Terror, The Executioner #363 by Don Pendleton (2009)

A cadre of violent bank robbers is wreaking havoc in the Midwestern states, amassing a small fortune and a large body count. Covered faces, jungle fatigues and foreign accents have everyone - from their victims to the government - thinking an Arab terror cell is to blame. But the appearance of the criminals is deceiving. While tracking them, Mack Bolan discovers he is fighting an enemy nobody wants to suspect - American soldiers. As the reign of terror escalates, Bolan realizes the group's ultimate objective is to destroy a major American city unless the federal government pays an exorbitant sum. As the deadline approaches, the Executioner decides it's payoff time, handing the traitors the ransom they deserve.

Disclaimer: Don Pendleton is now a house name used by the publishing company Gold Eagle Books. The books feature characters created by Don Pendleton most notably, Mack Bolan, The Executioner and Stony Man. Don Pendleton, the actual person/author, (December 12, 1927-October 23, 1995) was a pulp fiction and mystery writer, best known for the creation of American hero Mack Bolan. The series made the men's action-adventure genre popular in the 1960s and 70s, and got him the nickname "the father of action adventure". These may be seen as the male equivalent of the serial romance, which are mostly associated with women. If you like thrillers or westerns give any Don Pendleton book a read. You may well find you enjoy them and you'll never run out of them. There have been 456 released, so far, with countless more yet to come. I actually enjoyed Face of Terror and give it a B-. These are all short books (188 pages in this book) and can be read quickly, yet are entertaining.

The Cobra by Frederick Forsyth (2010)

What if you had carte blanche to fight evil? Nothing held back, nothing off the table. What would you do? For decades, the world has been fighting the drug cartels, and losing, their billions of dollars making them the most powerful and destructive organizations on earth. Until one man is asked to take charge. Paul Devereaux used to run Special Operations for the CIA before they retired him for being too ruthless. Now he can have anything he requires, do anything he thinks necessary. No boundaries, no rules, no questions asked. The war is on - though who the ultimate winner will be, no one can tell...

Another Forsyth thriller that scores high on my scale. A recipe for destroying the cocaine trade, but will it work? What do you think? Well... maybe or maybe not. You'll just have to take my recommendation that it's a great read, buy the book and find out for yourself. If you've read and loved Don Winslow's "Cartel", you'll love The Cobra! I give it an A and strong recommendation. What do you have to lose, other than a few bucks and hours. You'll not be disappointed.

Anne Bishop – Lake Silence – 7.99

In this thrilling and suspenseful fantasy set in the world of the New York Times bestselling Others series, an inn owner and her shape-shifting lodger find themselves enmeshed in danger and dark secrets.

Human laws do not apply in the territory controlled by the Others--vampires, shape-shifters, and even deadlier paranormal beings. And this is a fact that humans should never, ever forget....

After her divorce, Vicki DeVine took over a rustic resort near Lake Silence, in a human town that is not human controlled. Towns such as Vicki's don't have any distance from the Others, the dominant predators who rule most of the land and all of the water throughout the world. And when a place has no boundaries, you never really know what is out there watching you.

Vicki was hoping to find a new career and a new life. But when her lodger, Aggie Crowe--one of the shape-shifting Others--discovers a murdered man, Vicki finds trouble instead. The detectives want to pin the death on her, despite the evidence that nothing human could have killed the victim. As Vicki and her friends search for answers, ancient forces are roused by the disturbance in their domain. They have rules that must not be broken--and all the destructive powers of nature at their command.
